Pakistan's meat exporter eyeing to enter into international pet foods market akistan's meat exporter and trader, The Organic Meat Company Limited (TOMCL) is eyeing to penetrate into the pet foods market in the United States. "We are pleased to inform you that we have exported our first sample shipment of offals to be used in pet foods to the US market," said the company in a statement on Wednesday. The company informed that its shipment has been cleared by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which can result in the opening of a new export market for pet food raw material supply. TOMCL informed that this week it has started the trials for animal fattening on its first lot of cattle of various breeds. "Over the next two quarters we aim to populate the animal fattening farm with 3000 to 3500 animals as well as complete construction on the project. It is the first of its kind and the largest animal fattening farm of Pakistan," it said. Days ago, TOMCL informed that it has been granted approval by the Chinese customs authorities to export heat-treated beef to China. The company said that it has pioneered the heat treatment process, which allows the removal of the Foot and Mouth Disease (FMD) virus from beef meat. "This process will enable us to access more markets for value-added meat products," it added.

Vet discovers three-eyed calf whilst TB testing vet discovered a three-eyed calf on a farm whilst carrying out a TB test in Wales earlier this week. Malan Hughes tweeted a photo of the four-month-old Belgian Blue-cross-

Friesian, which was born on a farm in Gwynedd. Hughes told: "Vets tend to see all sorts of things - cyclops lambs and animals born with two heads - but I have never seen anything like this before. From the outside, the extra eye looks fine. It has eyelids and eyelashes, and it is moist too, as if some kind of lubricant is being secreted. But it is impossible to know if anything is going on behind the eye," she remarked. The Milfeddygon Deufor veterinary practice member said the three-eyed animal "does not act any differently from any other calf".

It has been reported that a 3-eyed calf was born in India seven years ago. According to reports, it was worshipped as a God, and named after Lord Shiva. The Hindu God, depicted with a third eye, represents insight and wisdom.

TNVR can reduce Rabies

rap-Neuter-Vaccinate-Release (TNVR) is the process of trapping cats and dogs, having them neutered or spayed and vaccinated, collartagged and releasing them. TNVR programs are important - through this approach, the number of unwanted dogs/ cats can be greatly reduced, which in turn lowers the unethical killings and this, in turn, saves the human population from the threats of deadly rabies.

TNVR practices address the public health concern about rabies and reduce the stray dog population.
